1. Physical Description of Project

The stand-alone battery energy storage project is located on approximately 10 acres in Riverside, California.

The project will be interconnecting to Southern California Edison Company (SCE) Highgrove 115kV Substation located in Riverside, California. The project will be building a gen-tie, approximately 1.0 mile in length, to the Point of Interconnection (POI) at Highgrove Substation's 115 kV switchrack. The project is designed to have a maximum interconnection service capacity at the POI of two hundred (200) megawatts. The current project design is utilizing seventy-nine (79) inverters, each with a rated capacity of about 3.05 MVA; as well as seventy-nine (79) unit transformers and one (1) 115/34.5 kV main transformer.

The project interconnection equipment (i.e. number of batteries, transformers, and inverters) are subject to change as the project progresses in development and final design.

2. Planned Operating Date

The In-Service Date specified in the Interconnection Agreement is 12/31/2023 with an Initial Synchronization Date of 1/31/2024 and a Commercial Operations Date of 2/28/2024.

3. Project Status

The project executed its Large Generator Interconnection Agreement (LGIA) with SCE and CAISO in January 2022. The Condor project team met with SCE in October 2021 to "kickoff" the design and engineering of the required Interconnection Facilities and Network Upgrades. SCE and the Condor project team meet monthly and continually communicate the development of overall design, procurement, and the construction schedule in order to meet the project planned operating date.
